Rationale behind the Forum

Major milestones are expected to take place within Indonesia's natural gas and LNG industry including LNG imports and more domestic cargo supply starting 2017. The commitment to deliver electricity to every corner of Indonesia's populous archipelago has made LNG one of the most exciting growth prospects domestically in 2016 and beyond. The government's aim to boost power generation by 35GW will see LNG play a key and strategic role.

Just recently, a floating regasification unit (FRU) and floating storage unit (FSU) arrived in Bali – paving the way for a real and realistic era of floating small-scale LNG regasification options for stakeholders. This facility will cement continued interest for stakeholders wanting to distribute LNG in smaller parcels, as marine fuel and for other small-scale uses, especially to remote areas within Indonesia. The business of LNG is never short term. The impact of low prices will create opportunities for companies and players who are in the downstream LNG value chain.

LNG-import infrastructures – both onshore and offshore – together with small scale LNG facilities and downstream distribution channels such as small LNG ships, bunkering and LNG trucking will continue to play a key role in the burgeoning LNG industry. Small-scale LNG – or Mini LNG in some cases – infrastructures will ease the distribution of LNG across islands and enable direct penetration into undeveloped markets and locations.

HOW TO INCORPORATE SMALL SCALE LNG SHIPPING INTO YOUR DISTRIBUTION PLANS TO SUPPORT FSRU AND OFFSHORE STORAGES: FOCUSING ON THE COMMERCIAL AND OPERATIONAL DYNAMICS FOR INTER-ISLAND OPERATIONS, DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL SMALL SCALE LNG SHIPPING

Facilitated by:

Eduardo Perez
Owner and Principal Consultant
SMALL LNG SHIPPING CONSULTANTS

Eduardo has more than 20 years of experience in international trade and shipping, both as a Charterer and as a Ship Owner. He specializes in ethylene transportation, small LNG carriers and complete supply chain value analysis. Areas of expertise in petrochemicals transportation include Iran and the Middle East; Europe; Brazil and Argentina and South East Asia. Eduardo spent over 14 years as a Chartering and Supply Chain manager with Dow Chemical globally before spending close to 10 years as Vice President at Norgas Carriers Houston and Singapore, General Manager at MNGC in Singapore and thereafter at Lauritzen Kosan A/S from Denmark as Business Development Manager. Eduardo has experience in dealing with different cultures and negotiation contracts in different countries.

SITE VISIT TO AN FSU, FRU AND POWER PLANT FACILITY

PT Pelindo Energy Logistic (PEL), a subsidiary company PT Pelabuhan Indonesia III (Persero), had recently build a Floating Regasification Unit (FRU) and Floating Storage Unit (FSU) in Benoa Port, Bali. The Mini LNG Terminal is the first of its kind in Indonesia, incorporating a Floating Storage Unit (FSU). This terminal will be able to meet the domestic gas needs, amounting to 40 million standard cubic feet per day (MMSCFD) – being supplied to a dual fueled power plant (PLTDG) in Pesanggaran Bali.

The power plant in Pesanggaran Bali is owned and operated by PT Indonesia Power, a subsidiary of state electricity company (PT PLN Persero). The power plant has a capacity of 200 MW. The LNG carrier departs from Bontang, East Kalimantan and being hauled into the Floating Regasification Unit (FRU), Lumbung Dewata. The concept of both an FRU and FSU side-by-side is a pioneering model for Indonesia. This concept is very relevant and suitable for an archipelago like in Indonesia. The FRU has a capacity of 50 MMSCFD while the FSU has a capacity of 26.000 CBM. Daily, this terminal is able to fulfill gas requirement amounting to 40 MMSCFD for power generation purposes.
